BANGOR WHIG.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1839.

Latest from Houlton.

[Correspondence of the Whig & Courier].

HOULTON, March 5, 1839.

The morning report shows a force of over 800. Two companies under the command of Captains Maxfield and Fish marched yesterday to occupy a position about 25 miles from this place, and erect some temporary defence to protect the troops in marching through a defile which is within sixty rods of the line of 1783. This line of march was taken at the request of Col. Jarvis. The Provincials are in considerable force in that immediate vicinity. Four companies were ordered to march to the Aroostook this morning, and the remainder will follow in a few days.

The utmost enthusiasm pervades the whole detachment. Stationed within two miles and a half of the line and exaggerated and exasperating rumours constantly afloat, nothing but the restraints of military discipline can prevent the troops from marching to Fredericton, which I have not the least doubt they could do. There is no regular force of any magnitude in New Brunswick, and their local militia (I give my deliberate opinion) would be about as effective in the field, as the Penobscot Indians.

But few of the soldiers are on the sick list. There are none who are dangerously ill. Considering the rapidity with which the troops assembled at Bangor, many of them in the hurry coming thinly clad, without the necessary cloathing, shoes or blankets, to protect them from the unavoidable exposure of a winter campaign, in the want of suitable quarters, or the change from their usual diet at home to rations of hard bread and raw pork, the preservation of their health may be considered Providential.

But I am apprehensive that without great care, the exposure to which they must be subjected in marching to the Aroostook before the necessary huts can be erected may put many of them on the sick list. Nothing more than justice would have been done to the soldiers, if they had been transported on sleds to the place of their destination. Such an arrangement would undoubtedly have been made if it could have been done.

Intelligence has just reached here, that the eleventh regiment of Regulars has arrived from Quebec to Madawaska. Notwithstanding the representations of the Blue noses, the fact is, that Sir John Harvey is making most extensive and energetic preparations for a contest with Maine. He is determined to take Military possession of a part of our territory. He will unless we move at once in the right direction, command the St John. If we could only have orders to retaliate, and occupy a part of the territory, our troops would find good quarters in Woodstock tomorrow night. British insolence would be chastised, and the expense of remaining for months on the Aroostook to wait for an attack which will never be made, would be saved. P.

WHIG CAUCUS.

The Caucus was well attended last evening. RUFUS DWINEL, Esq our present efficient Mayor, reclining a re-election, J. WINGATE CARR, Esq. was nominated as the Whig candidate for mayor for the ensuing year. Several appropriate and spirited resolutions were adopted which, with the doings of the meeting, we shall give to-morrow.

Congress. In the Senate on Saturday, the several appropriation bills, and the Indian appropriation bill were passed to a 3d reading. In the House, the bill from the committee of Foreign Affairs in relation to the Maine question was supported by able speeches from Messrs. Cushing, Crary, Adams, Bell and Smith, and opposed by Messrs. Everett and Biddle. In this bill, the Army Clause to raise 20,000 men was struck out by a vote of 95 to 72. A clause was inserted authorizing the borrowing of $5,000,000 for supplying the present army, and the militia if called out.

We learn from the Portland Advertiser, that the detachment of Light Infantry under command of Capt John D. Kinsman, left Portland on Tuesday afternoon for Augusta, in carriages provided for the purpose. Capt. Harding of Gorham is the senior captain, consequently the command devolved upon him, but in consequence of this delay in obeying orders, Capt. Barker of Westbrook has been appointed to that command. Capt. H. has been reported at head quarters as an absentee, upon whose case a court Martial will probably be ordered. Capt. Barker takes command at Augusta.

☞ Mr. Buckmore reached this city yesterday from the Aroostook. He reports, we understand, that Col. Jarvis has selected a fine position, and that one thousand men can defend it against an attack of 5000. Mr. Buckmore, brought as a prisoner a blue nose, who had been arrested for stealing a gun from the Camp of Col Jarvis.

☞ At an election of town officers in Gorham on Wednesday last, the Whigs carried their whole ticket. This is the first time, we believe, they have succeeded for a number of years.

☞ The Governor of Massachusetts has appointed Thursday, the twenty-eigth day of March to be observed as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

Bit [illegible] A porker, raised in Orland, in this County by D. P[illegible], Esq [illegible] sold in this market on the 5th inst. for the round sum of $70,94. The pig was twenty months and two days old when slaughtered, and weighed 567 1-2 lbs.

GEN HARRISON'S LETTER TO MR. DENNY

THE VETO POWER

The fourth principle, in Gen. Harrison's opinion, proper to be adopted by an Executive, sincerely desirous to restore the Administration to its original simplicity and purity, is the following:

"IV. That in the exercise of the Veto power "he should limit his rejecting of bills to, 1st. "such as are, in his opinion, unconstitutional. "2d., such as tend to encroach on the rights of "the States, or individuals. 3d, such as, in-"volving deep interests, may, in his opinion, re-"quire more mature deliberation, or reference to "the will of the people, to be ascertained at the "succeeding elections."

The King of England has the uncontrolled prerogative of Veto upon any law of Parliament, and that veto destroys the act, even if interposed by the sovereign, in a case of entire unanimity on the part of the legislature. "Yet," says Mr. Justice Story in his excellent commentary on the Constitution, "in point of fact, this negative of the King has not been once exercised since the year 1692: a fact, which can only be accounted for, upon one of two suppositions: either that the influence of the crown has prevented the passage of objectionable measures, or, that the exercise of the prerogative had become so odious that it has not been safe to exercise it, except upon the most pressing emergencies." In this free land of ours, that prerogative is checked by two thirds of the Legislature, and yet, since 1828, it has been used as the instrument of personal pique by the Executive, and in the most inconsistent manner, upon the most groundless and untenable pretexts, and is actually threatened, in advance, by the President of the United States, to be used in a certain contingency, should the two Houses of Congress presume to pass a given law!

The Veto "power is important, as an additional security against the enactment of rash, immature, and improper laws," says an able commentator; and, further, "the power will be used generally with great caution: there will be more often room for a charge of timidity, than of rashness in its exercise. The British King, with all his sovereign attributes, has rarely interposed his high prerogative, more than a century having elapsed since its actual application. If FROM THE OFFENSIVE NATURE OF THE POWER, a royal hereditary executive thus indulges serious scruples in its actual exercise, surely a Republican President, chosen for four years may be presumed to be still more unwilling to exert it." This doctrine is that of the Government, in that state of "its original simplicity and purity," alluded to in General Harrison's letter as the point d'appui, whence its administration of late years have so lamentably wandered. And now the same distinguished writer from whom we have been quoting, is nowhere more orthodox in his views than in the following passage, on this same subject: "nothing but a gross abuse of the Veto, upon frivolous, or party pretences, to secure a petty triumph, or to defeat a wholesome restraint, would bring it into odium or contempt." Now let us try some of the late uses, or abuses, rather, of this power of the Executive, by this standard, and let us see how deserving of "odium and contempt" it has by this time become.

Among the bills passed by the American Congress, in the year 1829-30, were the four following: One authorizing subscriptions to the stock of the Maysville road; another to that of the Washington and Frederick road; a third to that of the Louisiana Canal, and a fourth providing for improvements in certain rivers and harbors. The first of these passed the House, 102 to 85; the second 76 to 39; the third 80 to 37, and the fourth 95 to 44. On the first and second of these President Jackson placed his veto; and the two last, (both of which had passed by more than two thirds,) he put in his pocket till the next session, though had he sent them back within the Constitutional term they would have become laws. At the next session he Vetoed them, also, upon the ground of the unconstitutionality of Congress promoting internal improvements. It is no part of our purpose now to go anew into this much argued question of the Constitutional power of Congress: we have selected these instances as the initiative steps in that career of almost irresponsible dominion, arrogated to himself by Gen. Jackson, and, in spite of the fair promises with which he came into power, acted upon by him for eight years, and then handed down for the guidance of his successor, who had bound himself to walk "in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessor."

Nor will we now go into the abounding proof which all the history of that time discloses. That this wholesale use of the veto power was precisely that described by the Commentator above quoted. "A gross abuse of the veto, upon frivolous or party pretences, to secure a petty triumph." That it was so, a glance at the contemporary acts of the President will prove abundantly. Mr. Calhoun's opposition to General Jackson's re-election was formidable, if not removed, and hence this exhibition of a disposition on the part of that administration to overthrow what has been denominated the "American system," that bug-bear of the South. The Globe of the day raised an eldrich scream of triumph at the interposition of this Veto, on this very ground: "The veto prostrated all the hopes of the intriguers (the opposition) from the South!" (See Globe, Feb. 23, 1831.) That the motive we have assigned for this seeming and pretended act of Executive independence, and devotion to the Constitution, was the real one, is inferrible, moreover, from the striking fact that a large number of bills, passed at the same [illegible] the same [illegible] same character, per se, (though not involving the principle which we have said that the President for party purposes, was desirous to compromise, out of regard to Southern opinion,) were actually signed by the Executive, unhesitatingly. Such were bills for removing river obstructions, making roads and harbors, fortifications here, and light-houses there, amounting altogether, to some three millions of dollars; and in the same week in which he vetoed the other bills, he signed one granting an appropriation for improving a little creek, in lake Erie, in Ohio, navigable only about seven miles, though the improvement of the great mail routes of the country were, out of obeisance to the peculiar notions of the South, or a portion of that section, held to be local and unimportant, compared with that great national work, the improvement of Conneaut Creek! Besides, what lends additional force to the imputation of motive we have thrown out, he had always voted while in the senate, for all sorts of internal improvements.

From this beginning, from this polluted source, the stream of Executive usurpation in matters of legislation, has ever since flowed on, until we now hear the President, pledged to follow in his great exemplar's footsteps, actually declaring beforehand, in his inaugural address, what bills he will Veto, should they be passed by the Legislature of the land! And it is from this rapid departure from its "original simplicity and purity," that the author of the letter before us so sensibly declares it necessary now, to bring back the administration of the government. Will not the people whose government it is, sustain this position?

We shall continue our comments, and advert to other parts of this admirable letter hereafter.

[Correspondence of the Whig & Courier.]

WASHINGTON, March 1, 1839.

My letter of yesterday held you informed of the whole progress of the war debate up to that date, and including it. This debate will be found detailed, at length in the National Intelligencer, and will, of course recommend itself to your attention, as fitting matter to be laid before your readers. So close is the attention of the House to this and other matters, now, as the session draws to a close, that I should find it impossible to give you details, nor could you print them if I were to do so, so occupied are your columns necessarily at this time with documents, speeches, and facts of importance, connected with these most important matters.

The Bill, now before the House, as the special order of the day, is in Committee of the Whole, Gov. Lincoln in the chair.

Mr. Waddy Thompson has taken war grounds in favor of the bill, and the Message of the President.

Mr. Pickens has viewed the occasion as not calling for any war measure.

Mr. Adams has expressed the warmest concurrence with the views of the Executive, and is for holding the question of "agreement" open for settlement, as proposed by the Secretary of State.

Mr. Cushing is decidedly belligerent.

Mr. Howard is hardly less so.

Mr. Lincoln thinks Maine has been hasty, though the right is decidedly with her, he concedes. He is for sustaining that right, and will do so, at proper times and in proper ways.

Mr. Biddle thinks there is nothing in the exigency to call for the passage of such a bill.

Mr EVANS has met all objections with much eloquence and earnestness, and as I write this is replying in a most masterly manner, to the speech of Mr Biddle. He views this bill as a measure, not of War but of Peace. He represented Maine as armed, to one man, in just and righteous cause; pledged to a course from which she will not recede. He admitted that war would be rife with distress and suffering, but to no part nor portion of the land, more so than to Maine herself; nay, to none so much so. Maine cannot desire war. She however, knows her rights, and knowing, dares and will sustain them. Had the grounds now taken been taken earlier all this difficulty might have been saved. As it is, it is the language of truth now, as well as ever, that tells us of the wrongs and injuries of Maine, and it must be regarded. And it is, now, in view of the miseries, desolations and dangers of war, that this bill was proposed to be passed. Its passage would settle the matter, not on a warlike but a pacific basis. As to the right of jurisdiction, in the part of the country now invaded, set up by the Governor of New Brunswick, as matter of agreement, Mr. Evans remarked that this was a question of veracity between the two governments. Our own denies it as explicitly as the other asserts it. On this very subject, the British Minister, in his memorandum with our Secretary of State, admits a misunderstanding; and Mr. Evans quoted largely from documents, to show that such pretensions if ever before set up, had not been acceded to.

The assumption had always been met with prompt and decided denial, had always been resisted; townships had been located, settlers had gone there, and the British Government had, for years, contented itself with mere formal protests, without the pretence of exclusive jurisdiction. And now, it is asked for the first time, that we shall admit a British "claim" to parts of the territory, which, whatever else they claimed, that Government had never pretended to before! Here Mr. Evans drew a distinction between the Madawaska question and this. He showed that acts of exclusive jurisdiction begun by Great Britain had been retracted and disavowed, upon remonstrance, heretofore, and that ground abandoned.

He admirably depicted what would be the inevitable consequences of admitting this right of "original jurisdiction" in Great Britain, to the disputed territory; that it would be putting us in the attitude of [illegible] of the [illegible] of G. Britain tenants at will under that Government.

He viewed the bill not as a hostile one, but as manifesting the strong desire of this country to preserve peace. He pointed out the wisdom of the measure proposed, and described the proposed Minister to England, under one of the sections of the bill, as one who should have the confidence of all the country, able to protect our interests in the strongest manner. He concluded by eloquently and persuasively urging the passage of the bill upon the house: Lifting up his voice nobly and valiantly for the State he in part represents, and claiming aid for her from the General Government, in the present crisis; declaring that whether aided or not, she would stand for her rights to the last.

I do not pretend in this sheet, to give you anything like a report of Mr. Evans's "speech for Maine," as every body here is calling it. Disregardful of party, forgiving, if not forgetting this government's deafness to all his previous warnings and entreaties, to give this subject the attention it deserves, year in and year out, for seven years, he has stood up nobly for his State, and manfully fought her battles in the front rank. Should war ensue, should your soil, Messrs Editors, be invaded by a foreign force, the bravest soldier in your ranks can take no better example in carrying on the war, than that presented by this gallant Son of Maine, in the defence and advocacy of this bill.

Mr. Fillmore, (from Buffalo, N. Y.) thought that the war with Great Britain, if such ever should take place, would not be carried on in Maine, but on the Northern frontier. He was for making the preparations for defence and offence more general. He moved an amendment to the bill, going to a provision for lake defence.

Mr. Menifee deprecated war, if it could be avoided; but he was for maintaining the honor of the country, at all hazards. If such a point was now involved, and he believed that there was such an involvement of the National honor, he was for meeting it manfully, and defending that honor to the last.

Mr. Saltonstall took the ground that the exigency did not demand war; and made a very able and eloquent speech in support of his views, the house giving the speaker an undivided attention.

Mr. Legare, and others addressed the Committee pro and con: the Committee rose at midnight.

Several bills on the Speaker's table coming up for action, a motion was made to adjourn, (12 o'clock,) and the yeas and nays were demanded. The House then adjourned.

In the Senate, private bills, and appropriation bills, afforded little to interest to-day.

But there was one little flurry of some moment. Amos Kendall having been requested, by a vote of the Senate, to send certain information to that body, as to removals, &c., in his department, did not choose to answer. A second Resolution required him to say why he did not comply. To this he replied with his usual impudence, that he was busy, that the information was not ready, &c. &c.!!

Sevier (V. B.) promptly introduced a Resolution, which declared this highly insulting to the Senate.

Buchanan, Walker, and other Administration men advocated this Resolution, and it was opposed by Niles, Smith of Connecticut, Allen and Benton. It passed, however, as follows

YEAS 38 NAYS 8.

Mr Walker moved a Resolution that this whole proceeding of Kendall be laid before the President, for his action thereon. This prevailed also 31 to 15.

Amos has now managed to insult every department of the Government, without exception; Legislative, Executive, and Judicial. What will Van do with him now? Nous verrons!

Yours, &c.

☞ It will be seen by referring to our correspondent's letter that Amos Kendall has offered an insult to the U. S. Senate, and that that body has passed a resolution referring the matter to the President, for such action as he may deem proper. The following is the reply of the Postmaster General to the President.

"POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
"March 1, 1839.

SIR, In reference to the resolution of the Senate, adopted this day, and by you just communicated to me, expressing the opinion that a communication made by me on the 27th ultimo, in reply to their resolution of the same date, was disrespectful to that body, I have only to say, that no disrespect was intended or felt. Their resolution of the 12th ult. calling for the names of removed postmasters, designated no specific time within which the information would be wanted; and as it did not appear to look to any immediate Legislative or Executive action on their part, the necessity of greater expedition in preparing and communicating them to the delay of other pressing matters, was not appreciated by me so highly as it appears to have been by the Senate, or as perhaps it ought to have been.

And as the reply to the resolution of the 12th, was already in the hands of the messenger, and would accompany the reply to that of the 27th, showing that no disposition existed to withhold the information called for, it did not occur to me that any detailed explanation why it had not been "sooner" sent, was necessary or would be expected. Hence it will be perceived, that the letter complained of, was written hastily, (the messenger having been in fact detained until it could be written and recorded;) and but for the hurry of the moment, not allowing time for consideration, I should probably have given the more full explanation contained in this letter.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
AMOS KENDALL.

To the PRESIDENT."

The New York Literary Gazette. We have received several numbers of this very neatly executed and excellent publication. It is certainly deserving of extensive support, conducted as it is with much ability and taste.

In the Massachusetts Legislature on Saturday the Resolutions relating to the Boundary Question were fully discussed, and passed in the Senate by yeas and nays as follows: the first passed unanimously, the second by a vote of 18 to 11, the third and fourth 28 to 1. In the House they were passed by a vote of 193 to 94

Special Messenger to England. It is currently reported at Washington, we [illegible] not on what authority, that the President [illegible] to tender the mission to Mr. Webster. As a New England question, it is undoubtedly proper that a New Englander should be selected as the negociator and Mr. Webster, as the first man of all New England, is peculiarly well qualified for so distinguished a post. Balt Chron.

Mr. RUGGLES of Maine, offered, in the Senate on Thursday evening, an amendment to the military fortification bill, appropriating $200,000 for constructing works of defence on the head waters of the Kennebeck and head waters of the Penobscot, on the St. Croix, on the Penobscot opposite Bucksport, and one or two other places.

The new leader of the administration with Southern feelings, (Mr. Calhoun) opposed the proposition to repair the fortifications on the exposed frontier of Maine, and the bulk of the Administration party, voted it down. Perhaps the people of Maine will remember this.

THE BEST [illegible] FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

The best medicine for Coughs, Colds, and all Lung complaints, Hooping Cough, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Side, Liver Complaint, and affections of the [illegible], is Mrs. M. N. GARDNER'S INDIAN BALSAM OF LIVERWORT, containing the strength of many roots and herbs. Among the number are Liverwort, Elecampane, Boneset, Asclepias tuberosa, Iceland Moss, Squills, Hyssop, Ruta [illegible], also many other herbs not to be procured in this part of the globe. For the last [illegible] this valuable Balsam has been in extensive use in [illegible] in the Northern States, and, by the persons of [illegible] that have tested its efficacy, the Proprietor has made arrangements to furnish the druggists of this place, that all may avail themselves of [illegible] remedy, before the disease gets so seated that no [illegible] will remove it. Its effect on obstinate coughs is truly wonderful, and the following individuals voluntarily give their names [illegible] its efficacy. From the knowledge of its virtues, and the favorable effect upon our patients, where we have prescribed the above Balsam, we recommend it to be a valuable medicine for what it is recommended. GENUINE BUFFALO OIL,
THE HAIR! THE HAIR! THE HAIR!

The greatest ornament to the human body is a splendid head of hair. It has recently been discovered that the genuine Buffalo's Oil is a sovereign remedy for baldness, prevents the hair from coming off, promotes the growth, continues the luxuriance, and improves the beauty. It is far superior to any other animal or vegetable oil, and in case of fever, where the hair becomes dry and begins to fall off, there is no application more effectual in restoring its beauty and rendering it in a healthy state.

It is put up at a low price, (37 1-2 cents) that all classes can have access to it. None genuine unless put up in flat bottles, with Hair Oil impressed in the glass. Also, to prevent imposition, it will be signed by the Proprietor, Wm. Brown, 481 Washington, corner of [illegible] St. Boston.

VALUABLE CERTIFICATES.
EVAN'S CAMOMILE AND APERIENT PILLS.
THE DIFFERENCE.

IT cannot be denied that whilst many medicines which are recommended to the public, have not even the negative merit of harmlessness, there are others which it would be great injustice indeed, and suicidal prejudice to involve untried, in a common condemnation. And when a medicine comes endorsed with all the great names that have adorned the annals of the medical profession, and warranted by the seal and signature of long and uniform success, its proprietor makes no unreasonable demand upon the public confidence, when he claims for it a superior consideration.

The Camomile Preparation by Dr. Wm. Evans is undeniably entitled to this enviable distinction, for whilst no medical authority in existence condemns it, every medical practitioner that is acquainted with it, freely acknowledges its pre eminent virtues and that the latter should do so in opposition to their personal interests, must be attributed either to their candor and love of truth, or to their unwillingness to fly in the face of all observation, and the testimony of thousands.

Dr. W. Evans does not pretend that his Camomile Tonic Pills will cure all diseases. He frankly and conscientiously admits that they will not. He lays no claim to the discovery of the "Philosopher's Stone," and wishes nobody to believe that he sells the "Elixir of Life," but he does say, and he does believe, and he can prove, that in debility and impaired constitution; in Nervous diseases of all kinds; in weakness of the digestive organs; in incipient consumptions, whether of the lungs or the liver; in the dreadful debility occasioned by the use of purgatives; in palsy, rheumatism, (more especially) in the sickness incident to mothers, and to females of relaxed nerves; in every case of delirium tremens, or that disease which is brought on by intemperance; in the wretched horrors of body and mind which accrue from occasional inebrity; loss of appetite, languor, melancholy, pains in the head, limbs, or side; in corrupt sallow, and uncomely complexion, caused by the bad state of the fluids in all these cases, and in others mentioned in the bills of directions given with his medicines, HE DOES SAY, that the Camomile Tonic Pills, interchanged occasionally with his Aperient Family Pills, (the best known) which are sold with them, will effect immediate relief; and if used but for a fair period of trial a perfect cure. This much is placed beyond a doubt by daily testimonies which would be given on oath, and for this much Dr. W. Evans can conscientiously request confidence. He therefore need only add that his Camomile Tonic Pills, together with his excellent Family Aperient Pills, can be obtained wholesale or retail, at No. 7, Division street near Chatham square, N. York, and his authorized agents in town and country.

Other and more conclusive demonstrations of the efficacy of Dr. Evans' Camomile Preparation and Aperient Medicines, are submitted by the following important and extraordinary cures effected by their highly medicinal qualities; all of which may be seen at Dr. Wm. Evans' Medical Office, No. 7, Division street. One or two of these he herewith respectfully gives to a discriminating public.

Dr. Wm. Evans Sir, be pleased to receive the thanks of one who has been a great sufferer for several years, for the great benefits she has received from the virtues of your inestimable Camomile Pills. She has suffered with pain and distress in the head, a lightness across the head, a lightness across the stomach, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart; exercise would almost overcome her; but since using your Camomile Tonic Pills, her complaints are removed she is able to exercise without fatigue, and she is happy to say, can enjoy life comfortably again.

Newark, July 18, 1836 Dear Sir, for four years I have been so unwell that I was unable to attend to my business, and for the last 4 or 5 months was confined in my room, my complaints were rheumatism, pains in my stomach, indigestion and loss of appetite, with continued pain and dizziness in my head; I used different kinds of medicines without effect; until I commenced taking your invaluable Camomile and Aperient Pills; their beneficial effects upon me astonish all who knew my situation. In a few days I shall be at your office to express my gratitude to you in person. In the mean time I subscribe myself your most ob't serv't.

B. S. JARVIS, 13 Centre st.
Dr. Wm. Evans.

Extract of a letter from Jonas Snyder, Postmaster, Knoxville, Pa. to Dr. Wm. Evans. Among several cases "an elderly lady who had been 25 yrs. afflicted with nervous hypochondria, debility &c. that for the last 3 years she constantly received medical aid from a respectable physician, but the pressure and pain on her heart and breast, and especially in her left side, remained immovable, attended at long intervals with weakness in her head and on her mind keeping her discouraged to undertake any thing. In May she commenced using Dr. W. Evans' Camomile and Family Aperient Pills, according to the direction accompanying them. A reaction took place; the pains and pressure in her body was removed, her mind became clear and strong; her spirits perfectly good, and up to this time is in all respects restored to health, which for the last 10 years she has not enjoyed."

Sept 2, 1836 JONAS SNYDER.

ON LOW SPIRITS. Low spirits is a certain state of the mind, accompanied by indigestion, wherein the greatest evils are apprehended upon the slightest grounds, and the worst consequences imagined. Ancient writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular regions of the abdomen technically called hypochondria, which are situated on the right or left side of that cavity, whence comes the name hypochondriasis.

SYMPTOMS. The common corporeal symptoms are flatulency in the stomach or bowels, acrid eructations, costiveness, spasmodic pains, giddiness, dimness of sight, palpitations, and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of importance, or engaging in any thing that demands vigor or courage. Also languidness; the mind becomes irritable, thoughtful, desponding, melancholy and dejected, accompanied with a total derangement of the nervous system. The mental feelings and peculiar train of ideas that haunt the imagination and overwhelm the judgment, exhibit an infinite diversity. The wisest and best of men are as open to this affliction as the weakest.

CAUSES. A sedentary life of any kind, especially severe study, protracted to a late hour in the night, and rarely relieved by social intercourse, or exercise, a dissolute habit, great excess in eating and drinking, the immoderate use of mercury, violent purgatives, the suppression of some habitual discharge, or long continued eruption; relaxation or debility of one or more important organs within the abdomen, is frequent cause.

TREATMENT. The principal objects of treatment are, to remove indigestion, to strengthen the body, and to eliven the spirits, which may be promoted by exercise, early hours, regular meals and pleasant conversation. The bowels (if costive) being carefully regulated by the occasional use of a mild aperient. We know nothing better calculated to obtain this end, than Dr. Wm. Evans' Aperient Pills being mild and certain in their operation. The bowels being thus cleansed, his inestimable Camomile Pills, (which are tonic, anodyne, & anti-spasmodic) are an infallible remedy, and without dispute have proved a great blessing to the numerous public.

Some physicians have recommended a free use of mercury but it should not be resorted to; as in many cases it will greatly aggravate symptoms.

"PUBLIC OPINION IS SELDOM WRONG." Junius.

PUBLIC OPINION. Public opinion is perhaps the only unerring guide from whose decision there is no appeal; and was there ever such a manifestation of its approval, as there is with Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills? Step by step has this medicine wormed itself into favor, in spite of envy, derision and scorn. Triumphant has been its progress to its present sphere of extensive usefulness. It has surmounted obstacles before which quackery sinks paralyzed and has gained for itself a reputation which neither Physicians, nor flippant, sordid, counterfeiting apothecaries can ever injure. These charlatans, nevertheless, do assail it with the malignant shafts of their despicable envy, and which rebounds upon themselves with a power each day on the increase, until they themselves will be covered with the slime of their own manufacturing.
They can no more injure the reputation of Brandreth's Pills than they can put their hand upon the sun;
"Or with polluted fingers tarnish it."

If to discover the cause and nature of disease, [illegible] universal in its curative effects upon every kind of malady, proved by the cures performed upon thousands of persons, restored to the blessings of health;
if to do these things be praiseworthy, then is Dr. Benjamin Brandreth entitled to the praise of this and each succeeding generation. By the means he points out, chronic infirmities and premature death are prevented. What are the means? Simply Vegetable Purgation, and it is now an established fact that there is no other way by which a REAL CURE can be effected.

John Dorr's County Agency being discontinued by mutual consent, Sub-Agents in Waldo, Penobscot, Hancock and Washington Counties, will hereafter receive their supplies from Mr. JOHN O. LANGLEY, Dr. Brandreth's duly authorized Travelling Agent, or from the New England Office, 19 HANOVER STREET, 19.

How to be secure from Counterfeit Pills purporting to be Brandreth's Pills.

STOREKEEPERS' SECURITY. All persons who are authorized to travel for Doctor Benjamin Brandreth have invariably the power of attorney from him proved before the Clerk of the County of New-York. Without this is exhibited, touch, taste, nor handle.

STILL FURTHER, Dr. Brandreth's Travellers never require the money in advance. Dr. B's. terms being Medicine to be paid for when sold.

SECURITY TO THE PUBLIC. Observe that the certificate is dated this year, Eighteen hundred and thirty eight, in figures, and see that such figures are engraved, not written.

Inquire whether the power of attorney was seen when the Pills were left, &c.

All Pills having Wm. Brandreth on the label George Hodgkinson on the edge, are counterfeits, made to Deceive the Public and evade the law at the same time.

These, and indeed ALL counterfeit Pills, if used according to the direction which accompany my Pills, are calculated to destroy life. They are made by men having no standing or respectability without habitation or name, perfectly careless of consequences, provided money is obtained. Extract from Dr. B's. address to citizens of U. S.

And be careful to remember that I have never authorized any Doctor, Druggist, Apothecary or Pedlar in the U. S. to sell my pills. These contemptible persons universally sell counterfeits, and that all Tradesmen who are made agents have each of them a copperplate certificate of agency, signed in writing with a pen by me; and which certificate requires renewal every twelve months, it being no guarantee for more than one year from date observe the date is not written, it is engraved.
